

Tim Klineberg is head of KWM's national restructuring and insolvency practice. He is widely acknowledged as a leading restructuring and insolvency lawyer, with deep expertise in complex debt restructuring, and recapitalisations as well as formal insolvency.

Tim's experience includes all aspects of debt and equity restructuring and he commonly works with listed and unlisted businesses, major trading Australian banks and funds which focus on high yield debt and equity investment. He is also consulted on transaction structuring and the management of default and insolvency risk on many of the transactions KWM is involved in.

Tim also has significant cross-border restructuring experience gained in Australia and in the United Kingdom, where he practised for several years.
